

GLOBAL WARMING: The worldwide crisis that needs to be fixed

Global warming had become one of the most important issues in today's society. This is an issue that affects every one of us. Scientists predict that if we don't make changes to the ways we are treating the planet and its environment, temperatures will drastically rise and the climate will also drastically change. The CO₂ levels are at their highest since 30 billion years ago and still increasing. Global warming and climate change is seen as the top threat in 13 countries out of the 26 surveyed. This can suggest that people think that more action is needed, however, the governments that have the power to make a change have not been considering the issue thoroughly.

During this global pandemic, it has shown that we can help the environment and prevent climate change from getting out of hand. By people staying at home, and not constantly burning fossil fuels, and cutting down thousands of trees, we've cut out deforestation and pollution is down by 50% compared to this time last year.

At this moment, not enough is being done to help solve or improve this crisis, the world leaders have barely acknowledged the action needed to be taken.

THINGS WE COULD DO TO MAKE A CHANGE:

Everyone could make a small difference, however, if the majority of people start making a change, it could all add up.

- 1) Reduce waste of any kind – if you don't need it, don't buy it. If an object's use is over, then think of a way to reuse or dispose of it correctly
- 2) Also reducing the intake of plastic per person will minimize production and therefore, waste.
